CASH IS KING!

CREDIT makes a slave of the man who gives or receives it. WHERE cash and credit struggle along together, the cash buyer pays the bad debts of credit, and in either case, CASH or CREDIT, the buyer pays more for his purchase than he who buys of a strictly cash house. Did you ever think of that? In these stringent times cash buyers expect, and are entitled to, the very lowest prices, and should not be compelled to pay the losses incident to a credit business. In the future as in the past, we can save you 10 to 15 per cent on every dollar's worth of goods purchased of us. Our spring goods are arriving daily and our prices are below competition.

The LOTM of Yale is especially so. It has just leaked out (through a Sir Knight) that they have been having "awfully nice times" lately and we, that is a good many of us, haven't been in it. About a month ago they had a great blow-out, and one of their Great Five officers at the installation, presented their Lady Commander and Past Lady Commander with fine rocking chairs and wound up with a grand banquet and the funniest of all, they never told a word about it. A Sir Knight, however, attracted no doubt by the smell of coffee, strayed up the stairs in time to take in the situation and a share of the refreshments.

Last Friday night the same Sir Knight smelled coffee a second time and giving a few of his friends the hint they wended their way up to the LOTM hall and presented themselves at the inner door which was wide open. What a bewildering sight met their wondering gaze--

Ladies large and ladies small,
Ladies short and ladies tall,
Ladies bright, one and all,
sat around the room enjoying their coffee and cake and a jolly crowd could not well be found. There were upwards of one hundred of them, and not a man among them. Their bright happy faces set off by their jaunty head gear and bright scarfs made them look so bewitchingly attractive that one poor Sir Knight lost his heart and could he only have decided on one out of the many he, no doubt, would have proposed then and there and so ended all his troubles.

The ladies spared no pains to make it pleasant for their gentlemen callers, treating them to the best of everything and all went "Merry as a Marriage Bell" until the serving of refreshments being over the L. C. called order and requested that the gentlemen who had so kindly called on the ladies now favor them with speeches. The poor Sir Knights "looked the woe they dare not speak" but the first gentleman called, summoning up his courage, walked bravely to the platform and began to cast about for a speech. The others seeing his dilemma and realizing that they too were in for it made a bolt for the door and succeeded in reaching the ante room, but the picket was too quick for them and bolted the outside door. Realizing that there was no alternative they returned to the hall and did their best under the circumstances, making some excellent speeches and promising to do better at some future time, provided they be given a little time for preparation. The gentlemen were then allowed to pass out and all else remains a mystery.

In these hard times a majority of our people are practicing a more rigid economy than for many years. Nearly every family has a supply of old garments or goods, which can be used to advantage in such times and made to look almost like new by coloring over with Magic Dyes. You can depend on them for fast colors that will not crock or fade out, like most other dyes, and, unlike other brands, nearly all the colors will dye cotton, wool, silk or linen with same package (instead of requiring a separate package for cottons) which renders them far superior for coloring mixed goods. Simple directions. Large 10 cent packages of Magic Dyes, Yale.
